WHAT MAKES REINFORCEMENT TRICKY

- Motivation looks different for every student
- Reinforcers lose impact if they aren’t meaningful
- Too much choice can be just as challenging as too little
- Behavior systems need flexibility, not constant redesign

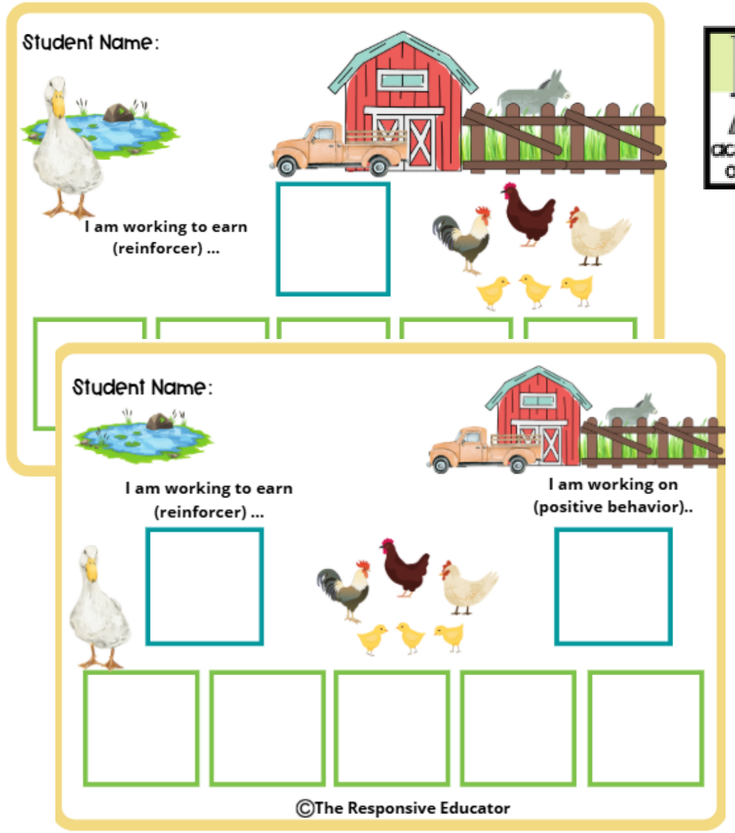
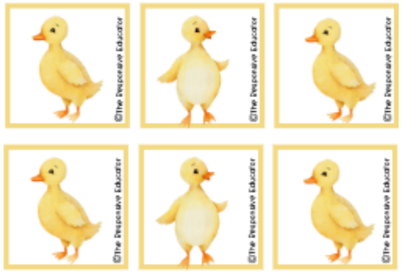
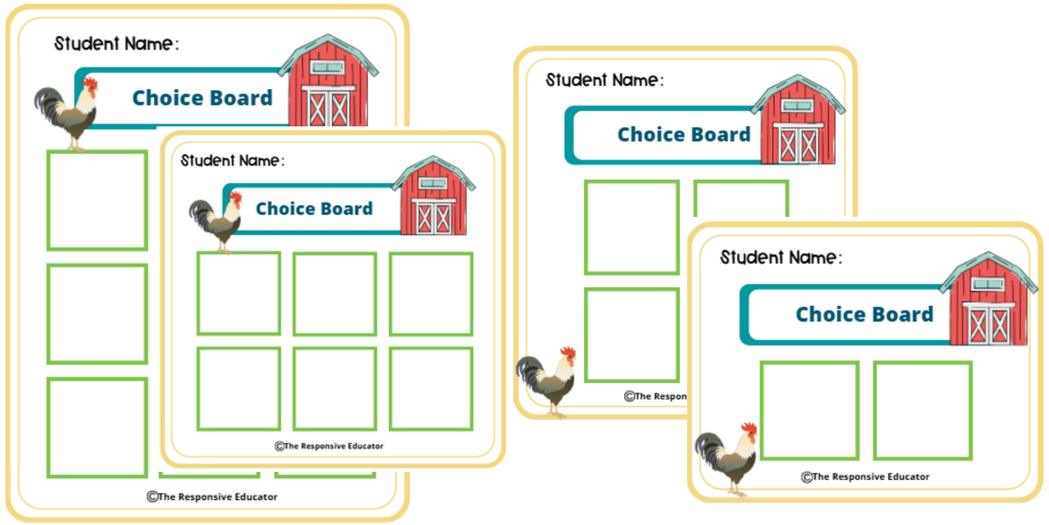
What Makes This Token Board Different?

DESIGNED TO EVOLOVE AS STUDENT NEEDS CHANGE







© TheResponsiveEducator

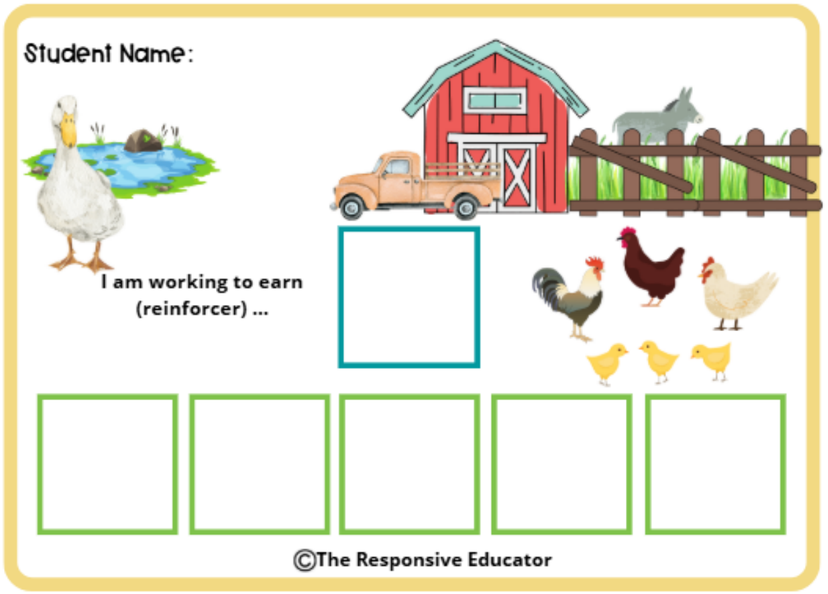
1 Flexible Choice—Without Overwhelm

- Choice boards with 2, 4, 6, or 9 options
- Teachers decide how many choices are offered
- Supports students who feel overwhelmed and those who seek control or novelty

© TheResponsiveEducator

2 Two Token Board Options for Different Needs: Use the same system—adjusted for the student's needs

Option 1: General token board with visual reminder of what students are working to earn



© TheResponsiveEducator

Option 2: Token board with visual target behavior

Helps students connect what they are earning and how they are earning it
