The Adventures of Lou and Fin

It was a sunny day, so Lou and Fin walked along the road by the beach, sniffing for an adventure.

"Lou, did you know if you wear a coat made of seaweed, you can talk to fish?" Fin asked with a sly grin.

"Really?" Lou wagged his tail excitedly, "I want one!"

"Well, you need to find yellow seaweed and tie it around yourself. Then, stand below the tallest tree and howl three times," Fin explained.

"Easy!" Lou said. They trotted down the seashore and Lou ran ahead to find some seaweed. He sniffed until he found some that looked a yellow color. He dragged it back to Fin who helped him wrap it around his body.

"Look, there's a tall tree this way," Lou ran under it.

"Alright, now you need to howl!" Fin said and Lou let out three long, slow howls.

"Now can I talk to fish?" Lou asked with a smile.

"Let's go and find out," Fin said and raced ahead to the water. Lou followed and jumped in the water, making the water spray.

Lou stuck his head under the water to look for fish. A school of fish saw him and swam away.

"Fin, I think the fish might be scared of me," Lou said with a sigh.

"They must think you are a silly sight!" Fin laughed.

"This is a bit silly," Lou agreed.

"You're right. Let's go home and lay on the couch."

"I think I'll keep the seaweed though," Lou wagged his tail, and the two friends made their way back home.
