The Adventures of Lou and Fin

Lou jumped up and looked for a stick.

He came back to Fin and drew the stars in the dirt.

He carefully counted from one to thirty as he did.

"You're very clever, Lou," Fin praised his friend. "Now, what color do you want to turn?"

"Hmm," Lou paused, "I think I want my fur to be orange!"

Fluency Passage

Lou and Fin sat under a big oak tree in the garden, watching the birds fly in the sky. "Lou, I think this is magic dirt. If you draw an art piece in it, you can turn your fur a different color," Fin said with a cheeky smirk.

"Wow!" Lou wagged his tail and grinned. "What should I do first?" "Find a sharp stick and draw thirty stars," Fin told Lou.

"Great! Now, face north and take a lucky card," Fin told Lou. "Then, turn around quickly and write the letters O-R-A-N-G-E in the dirt."

"This is fun, but I don't think it's working," Lou said as he twirled around for the third time. "I just feel dizzy!" "Oh, silly, Lou," Fin barked and laughed. "It's a trick!" "I should have known," Lou wagged his tail. "No more tricks, Fin!" "Ok, let's go and explore more of this garden," Fin agreed.

And the two dog friends had lots of fun playing with the birds in the park.
