The Adventures of Lou and Fin

Lou ran over to the tree, touched a stone with his nose, and ran back. "Now what?"

"Time to spin around while barking a song with a spooky theme."

"Ooooh, ahhhh," Lou barked as he went around in circles.

Fin laughed, "Now eat the lime!"

Lou ate the sour fruit. "Yuck!" He spat out his tongue. "Did it work?"

Fluency Passage

Lou and Fin sat by the lake one warm summer eve, watching the moon rise. "Lou, did you know if you bite a lime, you can change your shape?" Fin said, ready to play a game with his friend. "Now, really?" Lou wagged his tail. "It would be fun to change shape!" "You can become any shape you want!" Fin said with a playful smile. "But first, you must hike around that big tree over there and touch the smallest stone."

Lou ran over to the tree, touched a stone with his nose, and ran back. "Now what?" "Time to spin around while barking a song with a spooky theme." "Ooooh, ahhhh," Lou barked as he went around in circles.

Fin laughed, "Now eat the lime!" Lou ate the sour fruit. "Yuck!" He spat out his tongue. "Did it work?"

"Try the magic words: turn these paws of mine into giant claws!" Fin said. Lou repeated the words, but nothing happened. "Fin, are you sure this really works?" He asked. "Fin laughed loudly, and so did Lou. "You really believe everything!"

"Next time, I hope I won't fall for your tricks," Lou said and wagged his tail. "Now, can we go home and eat some cake? That lime was yuck!" "Yes, let's go," Fin smiled. The two dog friends walked home, barking a cheerful tune.

The Adventures of Lou and Fin

Lou ran over to the tree, touched a stone with his nose, and ran back. "Now what?"

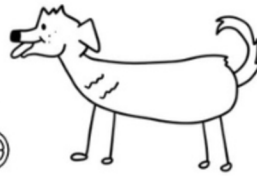

"Time to spin around while barking a song with a spooky theme."

"Ooooh, ahhhh," Lou barked as he went around in circles.

Fin laughed, "Now eat the lime!"

Lou ate the sour fruit. "Yuck!" He spat out his tongue. "Did it work?"
