The Adventures of Lou and Fin

"You have to balance this doll on your head," Fin said, showing Lou a teddy bear doll.

Lou carefully placed it on his head. "Woof-a-dee-doo!" He barked.

But the rock still hadn't changed into gold.

"I don't think it worked," Lou said. Fin fell over laughing. "Is this a trick?"

"Oh Lou, I could sell you a trick and you would buy it!"

Fin and Lou laughed together and kept playing in the messy leaves until it was time for dinner.

Lou lay in the grass, chewing on a stick. Fin trotted over to him, wagging his tail.
 "Lou, I have something to tell you!" Fin woofed. "Did you know if you bark like a jazz singer, you can turn that rock into gold?"
 "Really?" Lou's ears pricked up and he looked at the rock next to him.
 "Of course!" But first, you must toss three leaves in the air."

Lou jumped up and ran over to a tree where leaves were still falling off the branches. He ran in a circle, throwing leaves all around. The leaves floated down and landed on a mossy rock.

"Now," Fin giggled, "you must spin in a circle while ringing this bell."
 "Sure!" Lou panted and took the bell from Fin. He spun around until he fell over. "What next?" Lou felt dizzy!
