Facts About Snowmen

People have been making sculptures in snow for thousands of years.

During the Middle Ages, snowman building was a popular form of entertainment.

It is difficult to roll a snowball in powered snow since the snow will not stick to itself.

Snow are easy to pack and roll when the snow is moist and when it is close to melting point.

A typical snowman is made of three spheres of different sizes.

In the United Kingdom, two spheres are often used.

In Zurich, Switzerland, people celebrate the arrival of Spring by burning a giant snowman - Burning of the Böögg. The snowman's head is filled with firework.

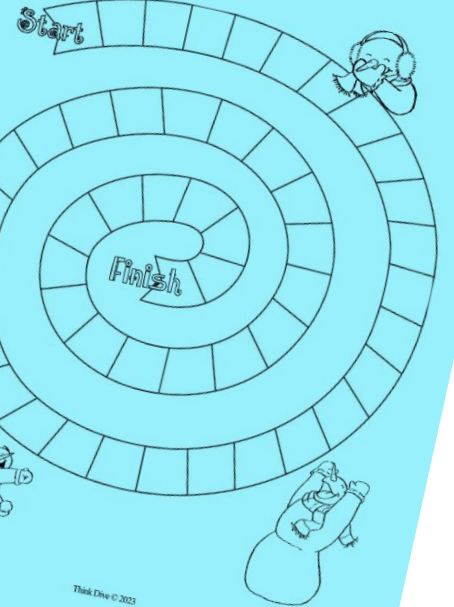

Frosty the Snowman is a popular Christmas song.

Olaf the snowman in the film Frozen longs to see Summer.

Hans Christian Andersen wrote a story called The Snowman.
