The Mystery of the Hidden Scroll

On an ordinary day, an unusual discovery at Grandpa's house changed everything. The house had many rooms to roam through. But one room was always off-limits – the attic. Grandpa always said, "you can't go up there, it isn't safe up there for kids." This made it more enticing to explore!

One afternoon, as grandpa fell asleep in his rocking chair, it seemed the perfect moment to sneak up to the attic. It was a cluttered room, filled with mismatched pieces of furniture and dusty boxes. Each step made the floorboards creak!

In the corner of the room, an ancient scroll fell from the top of an upside-down chair. It was covered in dust, but a map was visible.
