

Teaching Notes

- Print out the game board, laminate if you'd like it to last longer.
- Give each student some math manipulatives to use as placeholders, two dice, and the game mat to begin playing.
- To play the first page, each player rolls two dice and finds the sum. Then they place a counter on the answer.
- The rest of the pages are multiplication bump, so after finding the sum, they'll multiply by the number in the middle.
- If there is already a counter, they BUMP it out of the way.
- This game works best when you give each student a different color counter.

Roll 2 Dice, and find the sum, then add your piece to the answer, if there is already a piece, you can BUMP it!
