

PACIFIC NORTHWEST INSPIRED ART INDIGENOUS PEOPLE COLORING PAGES!

2
versions!

bear beaver

bee

blue jay

coyote

Name & image

crab

deer

eagle

fox

frog

heron

hummingbird

kingfisher

loon

moose

otter

owl

rabbit

raven salmon

seal

thunderbird

turtle

wolf

whale

bear

represents: bravery

beaver

represents: resourcefulness

bee

represents: honesty

Name, image, & meaning

blue jay

represents: renewal

coyote

represents: mischief

crab

represents:
rebirth

deer

represents:
sensitivity

eagle

represents: strength

fox

represents: adaptability

frog

represents: stability

heron

represents: patience

hummingbird

represents: beauty

kingfisher

represents: agility

loon represents: tranquility

moose

represents: resilience

otter represents: trust

owl

represents: wisdom

rabbit

represents: abundance

raven

represents:
creation

salmon

represents: dependability

seal

represents:
inquisitiveness

thunderbird

represents: protection

turtle

represents: longevity

wolf represents:
leadership

Covers
included!

whale

represents: community

Pacific Northwest Indigenous People
Animal
Art

By: _____

Pacific Northwest Indigenous People Animal
Art

By: _____

PACIFIC NORTHWEST INDIGENOUS ART

Pacific Northwest Art of Indigenous People

The First Nations people of the Pacific Northwest, such as the Haida, Tlingit, and Tsimshian, have a rich culture filled with beautiful art. Their art honors nature, family, and traditions.

Animal imagery can be found in many different kinds of art, like totem poles, carvings, paintings, and storytelling. This imagery can be used to represent different values, spiritual beliefs, and family stories.

Key Features of Pacific Northwest Art:

- Bold lines and shapes: Artists use thick black outlines with bright colors or natural wood.
- Animal Symbols: Animal imagery is often used with each animal carrying a special meaning.
- Balance and Symmetry: Many pieces of art are carefully made to look even on both sides, showing balance in nature.
- Storytelling: The art tells stories about family or clan history, beliefs, or lessons learned. There is a deep respect for the natural world, with animals playing a big part in explaining life, teaching lessons, and connecting with the Earth.

Page 1

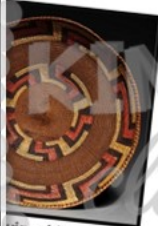

ART EXAMPLES

Totem Pole

Namgis Thunderbird Transformation Mask

Woven basket tray

ANIMAL SYMBOLISM

- bear: bravery - the ability to do something even though you are afraid
- beaver: resourcefulness - using what you have to solve problems
- bee: honesty - telling the truth
- blue jay: renewal - starting fresh again
- coyote: mischief - being playful and sometimes causing trouble
- crab: rebirth - being born or starting again
- deer: sensitivity - being kind and understanding of others' feelings
- eagle: strength - being strong in your body or mind
- fox: adaptability - being able to change and fit into new situations
- frog: stability - staying strong and steady

Page 1

Page 2

Page 3

Teaching materials!

If you like this resource, you may also love these Native American resources!

DIFFERENTIATED WRITING CRAFTS
NATIVE AMERICAN CRAFTS BUNDLE!

NATIONAL DAY of TRUTH & REMEMBRANCE
INDIGENOUS PEOPLES PENNANTS!

KIMBERLY'S
classroom