A secret society loyal to the crown has stolen some important documents from the National Archives – the Declaration of Independence is missing! Without the Declaration, England is claiming that the United States are still colonies and that Queen Elizabeth II is now the rightful ruler of America. If the Declaration isn't found by the end of the day, England will push her claim and throw the world into chaos. Can you help find the hiding place for the Declaration? The secret society has left clues so that members can find the documents, if you can decode the clues you will find it before they do.
