

WHO AM I?

GREEK GODS/GODDESSES

- Gamified Learning!
- Instant Built in Feedback!
- Google Slides

Who am I? Greek Mythology Gods and Goddesses

Directions: Read the description and identify the god/goddess being described. If you are correct, your answer will turn green. If incorrect, your answer will turn red and you should try again.

Questions	Answers
I came into this world through my father's headache. I fought my uncle to have the powerful city in Greece named after me. My shield is called the Aegis.	Apollo
I am a twin. My intimate relationships seem to end in turmoil. My favorite past times include reading poetry and listening to music.
As a son of Cronus and Rhea, I find my calling to protect the sharks and seaweed. I am easily annoyed and when I'm angry I can make the Earthshake with my trusty Trident.
Known as the "Lord of Justice" I lead with my lightning bolt in one hand and my scepter in the other as I sit on my throne in Mount Olympus.
I am considered the first merman thanks to my father of the sea. I live with my parents in a golden palace and have known the ocean depths beyond that of most.
When my brothers and I defeated our dad, I became the god of the underworld. I enjoy living in darkness with my wife, even if she's only in the underworld part of the year.	Hades
I am the son of Zeus and Hera. Although I share the god of war with my sister, she's the brains and I'm the muscles. My strength and resilience in battle are unmatched.	Hera
I was tricked by my brother to marry him. Despite that, I am a faithful woman, even if my husband isn't. I work hard to protect and defend women and marriages.
I am the trickster of the gods and I have been playing pranks on them since I was an infant. Don't be fooled though, I am a loyal friend. I serve as my father's messenger.	Hermes
I get my beauty from my mother. I love love. Although my father arranged my marriage to an ugly god, I do not love him. I have loved Ares and Adonis in my lifetime.	Athena
I am a demi-god. Zeus is my father, which angered his Hera and sent snakes to my crib! Don't worry, my superhuman strength turned them into a pretty cool rattler!
I am a master of my craftsmanship. Despite my physical imperfections, my beautiful buildings adorn Mount Olympus.
I am a daughter of Cronus and Rhea. I am often referred to as the grain goddess. I try to keep out of the drama, unlike my daughter, the wife of the underworld.
The forest, hills and moon calm me. I am the respected goddess of the hunt. I protect wild animals and bring relief to sick women and children. My favorite sport is Archery.	Artemis

(C) KaSaundra Willis- Surviving in Secondary 2023

